DEDICATION
LCDR TERRY G. ROBERTSON

In keeping with the newly founded tradition at our unit, the Harpoon begins with a dedication which usually goes to a leaving member of the staff. Surprisingly enough, this year’s dedication goes to Lieutenant Commander Terry ROBERTSON, the individual who first suggested the dedication three years ago! During his tour here he has been the spark which has ignited the junior class. No matter how dry the lecture material, class was never dull.
LCDR ROBERTSON has a gift for spicing up common information with sea stories and colorful expressions. He always had helpful hints to memorize day shapes or rules of the road. He is a fierce competitor and his spirit has rubbed off on every junior class he’s had.
One year his class challenged the seniors in football and won! It is not difficult to see why LCDR ROBERTSON was the natural choice to receive the Harpoon dedication. He has contributed greatly to the unit and to our learning experience. We know he will continue to do the same as XO on board the USS WICHITA (AOR 1).

Best of luck in the future.

With thanks and appreciation
OSU NROTC

Appreciation is shown in many ways. Here LCDR ROBERTSON grins good naturedly after being dumped in Mary’s River by his adoring class.

Where he likes it best... SURROUNDED by women!
Got a question?

This man's got an answer!

"Morck, the best way to keep your face out of trouble is to keep the lower half of it shut!"

EVEN TURKEYS NEED LOVE!

When he's not playing, LCDR ROBERTSON still has to be in the act, even if it's just coaching.

"Basketball at noon? Hmm ... that gives me two hours to heal!"

Fiery competitor that he is, LCDR ROBERTSON plays a mean game at shortstop.

LCMR ROBERTSON watches a play intently.
From my vantage point commissioning day 1980 was the highlight of a very good year for the NROTC at Oregon State University.

Most projects, tasks, competitions, drills and social functions were carried off in very fine style.

We have made changes - hopefully for the better - and intend to continue the review of all programs with an eye for improvement. However, as we all know, the heart of this organization rests in the Battalion and I have not been disappointed by performance since my arrival. In fact I have found the outstanding reputation of this Unit is based on real-life performance, initiative and “can-do”.

For those departing my very best wishes for good luck and a fulfilling tour in the multitude of various warfare specialties to which you are reporting. You are an outstanding group. Keep on charging in the way you have here and success is guaranteed.

My best to the Class of 1980!
